

Alfred Nobel University Classrooms

The total area of classroom space is approximately 30000 square metres (and that is without the Palace of Students!). The University has well equipped lecture halls with multimedia projectors and interactive whiteboards. For practical classes it offers numerous computer classrooms, language rooms, labs, dual classrooms etc.

In 2003 the Hall of Nobel Prize Winners' in Economics was opened in Ukraine for the first time ever.

From the moment of its opening, the Hall of Nobel Prize Winners in Economics has become an important center of scientific and educational activities not only at the University but also in Dnipropetrovsk Region and Ukraine as a whole.

Notable events are held here with great success: international and inter-university scholarly and practical conferences, meetings of creative nature, ceremonies of awarding prizes to winners of prestigious contests and championships, as well as opening and closing of regional stages of All-Ukrainians Olympiads and competitions in Economics for high school students. Following the established tradition, it is in this Hall that the students of the University receive their diplomas of Bachelors and Masters.

It can be said without an exaggeration that every event within these walls becomes significant for the scholarly and academic life of Ukraine and the world, attracts attention of scholars and academics from Ukraine and other countries.
